LA libRería

How do we work?

We do the living work that is curation –

Creating contemporary collections that will last, check all the boxes to cultivate a love of reading that is relatable, memorable, and enjoyable

LA libRería

What are the titles like?

- Spanish or Bilingual

Titles are in Spanish, both original works + translations, because we want them reading quality literature en Español Ask me about our Multicultural titles in English

- Reaffirming of culture / identity

Over 150 different publishers across the Spanish speaking world are represented in our collection, ensuring that works are not only in Spanish, but representative of the range of cultures unified by a heritage language

- Only the best

Quality writing + illustration / Authentic stories / Excellent translations

The best books captivate a listener, entice a reader, cultivate natural curiosity and passion in children + young adults. – This is how we grow the cultura de lectura –

Novedades

we have over 150 of them on our New Releases Order Form, but here are a few of our favorite titles published in the past year.

LIBROS DEL  ZORRO ROJO

Primeras alegrías

9788412470710

Véronique Joffre

An affectionate boardbook for budding baby readers – It could have been written by one :) It's a book that celebrates with beautiful collage imagery in soothing tones the first joys and delights of little ones. Once the reader puts themselves in the shoes of a little baby (or cozy socks I should say), they will be immediately entertained by the simplicity, recognizing that they are these small moments, these repeated daily routine occurrences that are the true joys of babyhood. The joys of going on a walk, snuggling + affection, littles imitating bigs are all contrasted page to page between the human + animal world. It's an excellent book for creating dialogue with babies too – They tell adults that we should talk with babies, however sometimes we need a script, or even just a boost – and Primeras Alegrias provides that. We always say we want options for all readers to identify with what they are reading, we see that here on the youngest, most basic level.

Bestiario de los colores

9788412537161

Adrienne Barman

Another one to add to the Bestiarios collection! In this one, littles discover the colors and tones their favorite animals wear. “What color is the albino owl?” “How many pink animals do you know?” – This smaller format Board Book presents small scenes that are easy for young ones to identify, so they can enjoy the array of nature’s colors. Page by page, child and adult can admire the imagery and recite out loud the words, celebrating biodiversity and our beautiful planet. The vivid colors and cartoon animals keep little eyes engaged.

¿Cómo será el más allá?

Shinsuke Yoshitake

Kenta (whom we met in That Robot Is Me) discovers a notebook full of his grandfather's drawings and notes about "the other world", that is, his plans for after he dies. In it he includes a travel plan, the essential equipment to enjoy paradise, the things he would like to be reincarnated as, how he imagines the gods and goddesses, and even his favorite models of headstones. A book without taboos, respectful of all ideas, surprising and, without a doubt, funny, about death, or about what comes after, be it the other world, the other life, or the afterlife, paradise or the another neighborhood, each one can call it or conceive it freely and with joy: "I start thinking about everything I would do after I die, and everything I want to do now that I'm alive comes to mind."

Malvarina – Quiero ser bruja

9788418304668

Susanna Isern

Not a graphic novel, but I put this title in a similar category...due to the abundance of illustrations and storyline. This story happens in a valley, but not just any valley – a bewitched valley, governed by three evil witches, famous and feared for their chilling spells. Yes, this story might make your hair stand up, maybe even your teeth have started to rattle – but if you, like Malvarina, would want to turn into a truly authentic witch, you too would have rung the doorbell of the Prohibited Castle...

¡TACHÁN! Este es el Valle Embrujado. ¿Ves los tejados que se asoman entre la niebla? Son las casas de Villagrís, un lugar sombrío donde raras veces llegaban los rayos del sol. Detrás de las últimas viviendas (o de las primeras, según como se mire), comenzaba el Bosque Encantado que todavía era más oscuro que las calles del pueblo. Se decía que al caminar en la profundidad de su vegetación no se podía distinguir si era de día o de noche, aunque te aseguro que ese era el menor de los problemas que podías encontrarte si te atrevías a cruzar la linde.

Se contaba que, cincuenta años atrás, Tristán, un niño muy osado y ávido de aventuras, fue engullido por el bosque y nunca más se supo nada de él.

El bosque es nuestra casa

9788417555610

Sara Fernández

El bosque es nuestra casa opens a door for us to get to know forests, their function, and their natural cycles with a focus on science and ecology. It's also a title to understand our past relationship with the forests, and the importance they have in our daily lives. This book is necessary now more than ever to understand that we need to have a future together with the forests, and that we can make it so they continue to take care of them and giving without putting them in danger. In this book – written and illustrated by two forest engineers – every detail, every page, every tree drawn has a specific function. The authors label some, but some not to encourage the attentive reader to do their own investigative work + discovery.

PICANDO PIEDRA

Todo empieza cuando las rocas, que parecen tan duras, se disgregan por la lluvia, se rompen por el hielo y empiezan a ser colonizadas por seres vivos muy pequeños. Bacterias, líquenes, musgos, hongos y otros microorganismos liberan sustancias químicas que atacan las rocas. Y, al morir, sus restos se convierten en materia orgánica.

PASITO A PASITO

Hoy semillas capaces de germinar sobre muy poca cantidad de materia orgánica. Estas nuevas plantas son la comida de otros seres que a su vez son el alimento de otros más grandes... Cada vez hay más excrementos y restos de animales y plantas que se incorporan al suelo, y más sustancias químicas que siguen atacando la roca madre.

MUCHO MÁS QUE TIERRA

Cuando el espesor de materia orgánica y de roca disgregada es suficiente, pueden habitarla plantas cada vez más grandes. Estas contribuyen a que el suelo sea aún más profundo y a que se almacene y recicle más agua, nutrientes y carbono. Hay más espacio y recursos para más seres vivos. Pero a las plantas y los animales les pasa igual que a nosotros, no a todos nos gustan las mismas cosas. Dependiendo del tipo de suelo, vivirán unas u otras especies.

UNA DESPENSA PERFECTA

Un suelo desarrollado parece una tarta esponjosa. En la capa superior está la mayor parte de los animales, así como materia orgánica, carbono y nutrientes. En la siguiente, que es más espesa, es donde más agua se puede almacenar. Pero es la capa más profunda la que casi nunca se seca. Y aunque allí encontramos muchos hongos, las raíces de los árboles siguen haciendo crecer al suelo por debajo.

CUANTOS MÁS, MEJOR

¡Una especie de cada cuatro vive en el suelo! En un solo gramo de suelo podemos encontrar miles de bacterias, hongos, gusanos, lombrices, insectos, ácaros, ciempiés y otros microorganismos.

EROSIÓN FATAL

La evolución final de un suelo dependerá del clima, de la pendiente, del tipo de roca y de la vegetación. Si esta desaparece, el suelo queda desprotegido por arriba, las raíces ya no lo sujetan por debajo. El agua, el viento y la radiación solar lo atacarán, dando lugar a la erosión.

Soledad Romero Mariño

¡So many things can happen in a second! In that fraction of time, for example, the universe is capable of creating 4000 new stars... Nonetheless, sometimes the contrary happens – nature goes from a quick rhythm to slow, and a seed can need years to turn into a tree. This book is a fascinating discovery of the different speeds in the universe – and while the topic seems advanced, take a look at these illustrations! It's for readers as young as 4 years old!

DERECHOS HUMANOS

9788412517125

Yayo Herrero

Everybody deserves to be respected and valued. Independently of where we were born, how much we have, what we believe or think, whether we walk with two legs or roll in a wheelchair, or what our gender is or who we love, or what the color of our skin or what age we are... all lives are important and and we deserve to live them in peace. This book is full of colorful graphics, charts, and timelines to teach the history of human rights and human rights movements.

LA libRería

Las mujeres comenzaron a luchar por sus derechos en el mismo momento en que estos aparecieron. Las sufragistas, por ejemplo, se organizaron a lo largo del siglo xx y primera mitad del xx, para exigir el derecho al voto, la educación y la capacitación profesional para las mujeres.

Algunas de estas mujeres exigieron los derechos para las mujeres blancas y no pobres, sin preocuparse por la falta de derechos para las indígenas, las mujeres negras y las criadas. Hubo, sin embargo, otras muchas como Lucretia Mott (1793-1880) y Elizabeth Cady Stanton (1815-1902), que fueron sufragistas y participaron activamente en la lucha antiesclavista.

En el momento actual, el movimiento feminista es fuerte y tiene dimensión internacional. Abarca la lucha contra el acoso y las violencias machistas, el derecho a que cada cual tenga decisión plena sobre su cuerpo, la erradicación de las desigualdades laborales, el reparto de las responsabilidades del cuidado a las personas, la lucha contra el racismo instalado en nuestras sociedades, contra la trata y la explotación sexual, la violencia obstétrica y los matrimonios forzados.

Las luchas de las mujeres

DERECHO AL ABORTO

Rusia fue el primer país del mundo en legalizar el derecho al aborto en 1920. En 2020, tras muchos años de lucha, un movimiento integrado por cientos de miles de mujeres consiguió que se legalizara el aborto en Argentina. Su lema fue el siguiente: «Educación sexual para decidir, anticonceptivos para no abortar, aborto para no morir».

FEMINICIDIO

El feminicidio es el asesinato de mujeres motivado por el odio, el desprecio o el sentido de posesión hacia ellas. El feminicidio también incluye los abusos verbales y físicos, tales como la violación, la tortura, la esclavitud sexual (especialmente por prostitución) y el abuso sexual infantil.

MUJERES INDÍGENAS

En enero de 1980, nació la Confederación de Mujeres Campesinas Indígenas Originarias de Bolivia Bartolina Sisa. Estas mujeres se organizan para reclamar la dignidad y los derechos de las campesinas y denuncian la triple discriminación que sufren por ser campesinas, mujeres e indígenas.

HUELGA DE MUJERES DE 2018

El 8 de marzo de 2018 se celebró la primera huelga internacional de mujeres y contó con muchísima participación, especialmente en España: las grandes ciudades y las poblaciones más pequeñas se movilizaron ampliamente.

EMMELINE PANKHURST (1858-1928)

La activista política británica y líder del movimiento Unión Social y Política de las Mujeres Emmeline Pankhurst trabajó hasta conseguir el voto para las mujeres. Ella, sus hijas y otras mujeres fueron encarceladas varias veces y se declararon, también varias veces, en huelga de hambre.

GORDOFOBIA

La gordofobia es la actitud que supone discriminar, humillar o ridiculizar a las personas que superan el peso que impone la estética, especialmente si esas personas son mujeres. Muchas personas gordas se organizan para reclamar el derecho a ser como son y a ser felices.

Estoy muy... I am Very... is a tender illustrated album that helps children recognize and put a name to their emotions, and how to put themselves in the shoes of others. It's a book that promotes empathy, inclusion, and teamwork because even in our worst moments, we aren't alone. Similarly to "Todo el mundo cabe aquí" its strength is the diversity on its pages.

El elefante en la sombra

Nadine Robert y Valerio Vidali

El elefante en la sombra

9788412537130

Nadine Robert

Elephant is sad. He's stayed in the shadows, and hasn't wanted to be with anyone. The other animals try to lift him up – the monkey with his jokes, the ostrich sisters with their dance, and even the crocodile... But the elephant doesn't smile, or move, just sighs and stays in the shadows. Then a small mouse comes and sits next to elephant. And little mouse just wants to relax. So the two of them sit in the silence. Later the mouse tells elephant his story, they cry, and finally, alleviated, they head out to look for the mouse's house.

The images are hypnotizing, in bright tones, that intensify the contrast between joy and sadness, while at the same time the shades of blue give depth to a story narrated with subtlety and charm.

¿Por qué tenemos miedo?

9788418972089

Fran Pintadera

A follow-up work to “Por qué lloramos?” Which we presented at Reforma last year, this is another poetic explanation of fear, told as an answer of a father to his son’s question. The answer is nuanced and reminds us of the various types of fear, and that fear is always with us, and needs to be expressed – that it keeps us on alert, and brings us an opportunity to get to unexplored parts of ourselves.

Each day conflicts arise in class and often we don't do anything about it. We get quiet when we see someone get pushed, insulted, humiliated, because the fear paralyzes us. But we are not alone! With the help of family, friends, school, we can learn to react another way and combat the harassment.

Bullying is another part of the larger collection Grandes herramientas para pequeños guerreros (big tools for little warriors), in which you'll see titles – Pensamientos, Relajaciones, Habilidades sociales y Me quiero.

LA libRería

¿QUÉ ES EL BULLYING?

Llamamos bullying (acoso) a cuando alguien está sufriendo situaciones de maltrato o violencia por parte de una o más personas, de manera continuada y con intención. De hecho, bully, en inglés, significa, literalmente, «matón».

Existen diferentes tipos de acoso, y todos ellos provocan mucho dolor. El acoso psicológico o verbal sucede cuando te insultan y empiezas a sentir miedo e inseguridad; el social, cuando no te dejan participar en actividades, te excluyen o te discriminan; el físico, cuando te empujan, te pegan y usan la violencia para amenazarte y hacerte daño; y el ciberbullying, cuando las redes sociales son el canal para hundir a la víctima.

La hija de los sueños

9786079779986

Irena Brignull

A small girl wants to know where she comes from and why she doesn't have a father. When her mother can't say, she decides to find out for herself. Her journey starts by asking the stork that is nested on the roof of her house, who conducts the search of the forest. She tracks down her own personal history with the help of the animals she finds, until she discovers what really matters in being part of a family. It's a beautiful story about love, and diverse families – we love stories that show all the types of families!

¿Y si me come una ballena?

9788418304880

Susanna Isern

If you remember books like “Esto no es una selva” and others, “Y si me come una ballena” is a work of the same author / illustrator duo. (We LOVE them!) Martín has an overflowing imagination that sometimes tricks him. He imagines that catastrophic things happen, and worries so much that he shakes like a flan. “And if all the balloons explode at the party?” “and if i get lost on the field trip?” So his mother decides to flip around his fears – “And if the best is yet to come?”

LA libRería

Y es que Martín se preocupa demasiado.

Se imagina que ocurrirán cosas catastróficas, y eso hace que tirité como un flan y que su corazón galope como un caballo. Así que muchas veces decide dejar de hacer planes, aunque le apetezcan una barbaridad.

Las nietas de Baba

9788417555597

Ina Hristova

Old Baba lives alone in a small forest house on the top of the mountain. One day without intending to, she wakes the wolf from his nap, and he threatens to eat her! To save herself, Baba makes the wolf a proposal – alleging that her old flesh is hard and dry, she invites the wolf to come to her house that night, to choose from one of her granddaughters. This popular tale, known by the age-old character of Babayaga - an old woman, a witch, perhaps mother earth - comes from Bulgaria. And in this tale craftiness and creativity battle brute strength – making way for a delicious linguistic + metaphorical game. The author is also illustrator –
